Dear Mr. Brown:

Thank you for contacting my office regarding a motion that I moved in the House of Commons regarding indoor air quality.

Further to your request, I am enclosing a copy of Hansard (in both French and English); the actual debate has been highlighted.

As my research progressed on this topic, it became clear that that indoor air quality is a far more significant problem than I think many people realize. In fact, I was disappointed with the comments of the government Members of Parliament; they seemed more concerned with a defence of the status quo than they did with the problem.

I would appreciate any comments or suggestions that you might wish to share with me.

Yours very truly,

John Manley, M.P.
